Superintendent Rise Up – Even in Defeat

“A couple of weeks ago, the following headline seemingly summed up the life work of a hopeful Olympic athlete: American skier Mikaela Shiffrin's run at Olympic Games comes to an anticlimactic end without a medal.

Mikaela Shiffrin's 2022 Olympic Games came to an anticlimactic end on Sunday in the bronze-medal race of the wind-delayed mixed team parallel skiing event. Shiffrin had been hoping to salvage her unexpected time in Beijing with one final shot at a medal. Instead, the squad lost to Norway in a tie-break.

The 26-year-old was expected to win multiple medals at the Beijing Games and had expressed her hope to compete in all five individual disciplines. While she was able to participate in every event, not much else went to plan. Shiffrin recorded uncharacteristic "did not finish" results in the giant slalom, slalom and Alpine combined races; and she finished ninth in the super-G and 18th in the downhill. (D'Arcy Maine, ESPN.com)

Thankfully the story does not end, nor begin here because a two-week window of time does not define a life or a career:

The U.S. team embraced at the bottom of the mountain after discovering they had placed fourth and out of the medals. Still, Shiffrin remained positive after the race.

"I am not disappointed," Shiffrin said. "Today is my favorite memory. This was the best possible way that I could imagine ending the Games, skiing with such strong teammates."

Already one of the most decorated Alpine skiers in history and the owner of three previous Olympic medals, had Shiffrin won one medal, she would have tied for the most medals by an American woman in Alpine skiing. By competing on Sunday, Shiffrin became just the second woman in history to compete in all six Alpine events in the Olympics.

Reflecting upon the fourth-place finish in the mixed team event, in addition to the struggles she experienced through this Olympics, Shiffrin declared:

"You just hope to do the very best you can and control the things you can, and we were that close to getting a medal today; and that is a testament to the work everybody has done this entire time, years leading up to these Games. It's not just today."

Mikaela Shiffrin is a champion who knows how to "Rise Up" in every circumstance. Thanks to each of you for demonstrating this same type of courage, optimism, and commitment to "do the very best you can and control the things you can." It is a "testament to the work everybody has done this entire time" of crisis. You are true champions who know how to "Rise Up!"

CareHere is now Premise Health

CareHere, which previously operated the Nebo Health and Wellness Center, has joined the Premise Health family. Nebo has been working with CareHere and Premise for a smooth transition with minimal impact to you.

First and foremost, this will not impact your care. The providers you know and trust are not changing. Premise acquired CareHere last year and are committed to improving access to healthcare.

The only other change you will notice and associated action you'll need to take is to sign up for your new patient portal. You will need to re-register to stay connected with online appointment scheduling.

Nebo School District is still committed to providing our employees convenient, quality and affordable healthcare and is also committed to your privacy. Nebo School District does not have access to your personal health records.

Important Information:

You can access the CareHere app to look up your historical medical data through May 2022 but not make appointments. Appointments already scheduled were moved to the new system.

March 7 - Clinic opened as Premise and the App went live. You will need to create an account for each of your dependents on this day. You do not need an access code to register.

Please read through all steps. Take a few minutes and create your account on the Premise website. You will need DOB and last four SSN for each person you are registering.

You can register on your computer then log into the app on your phone or register directly on the app. The app is called MY PREMISE HEALTH.

If you need help with your account, please call Premise direct. There are two ways that you can contact them. You can call 801-800-8873 (this is the customer service line). Or, go to the registration page and on the right side, there is a "Contact Support" button.

How to register: Go to the Premise website <https://members.premisehealth.com/ch/>.

Nebo looks forward to continuing to support our employees with access to high-quality healthcare.
